LETTER OF GOV. COX, OF OHIO.

President Johnsons View's in Detail.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Feb. 26, 1866.

General George B. Wright, Chairman Republican Central Committee, Columbus, O:

MY DEAR SIR: On Saturday last I had the honor of an interview with the President, which I regarded as of sufficient interest and importance to make it proper that I should reduce in writing my remembrance of his statements whilst they were fresh in my memory, since he seemed to me, in a perfectly free and unpremeditated conversation, to exhibit with peculiar clearness the processes of his own mind in reaching some of his opinions, and to express them with such manifest candor and entire freedom from personal feeling, that I could not but think that if he would consent to it, good might be done by making his statements public. Accordingly I again waited upon him this morning to make known what I had done, to ask his verification of the truth of my report, and his consent to make the same known to the country, although he was entirely unaware of my purpose to reduce his remarks to writing, and I myself had no such intention when I first called upon him. He most frankly gave his consent and assented to the accuracy of my report, which is as follows:

The President said he had no thoughts which he was not willing to avow—that his policy had simply aimed at the earliest possible restoration of peace, on the basis of loyalty. No Congressional policy had ever been adopted, and, therefore, when he entered upon the duties of his office he was obliged to adopt one of his own. He had in some sense inherited that of Mr. Lincoln, with which he thought he agreed, and that was substantially the one which he had carried out. Congress had no just ground of complaint that he had done so, for they had not seen fit to declare their views, or adopt any measures embodying what could be called a policy of restoration. He was satisfied that no long continuance of military government could be tolerated; that the whole country would properly demand the restoration of a truly civil government; and not to give it to the lately rebellious States would be an admission of the failure of the Administration and of the party which had carried through the war, to prove themselves equal to the exigency, now the work of destruction was over, and rebuilding had begun. Military government alone would not pacify the South. At the end of a long period of such government, we would be no nearer, and probably not so near, the end as now, and would have the same work to do. Hence there is a real necessity of adopting a policy which should restore civil government fully, just as soon as the rebellion should be thoroughly ended, and those conditions accepted by the South, which were to be regarded as absolutely necessary to the peace of the country. One central idea had controlled him in the whole matter, and this was, that the proper system of pacification would be one which tended everywhere to stimulate the loyalty of the people of the South, themselves, and make it the spring of loyal conduct and proper legislation, rather than to impose upon them laws and conditions by direct external force.

Thus, in the case of the Freedmen's Bureau, he was not against the idea of the bureau in toto; for he had used it, and was still using it. It might continue for more than a year yet. He had contemplated that either by proclamation of his own or by some action of Congress a condition of peace, the technical end of the rebellion, would probably be declared at some period not very remote; and as he understood the present law, the Bureau might continue a year from that time. Meanwhile he could say to the South: It depends upon themselves to say whether the Bureau shall be discontinued at an early day, for I will put an end to it, just as soon as you, by proper action for the protection of the freedmen, make it unnecessary. Thus, said he, the hope of getting rid of the institution stimulates them to do what is right, whilst they are not discouraged by the idea that there is no hope of an end to what they regard as a sort of military government. If, on the other hand, the bureau were to be made a permanent thing by this legislation, which, on its face appears part of the fixed law of the land, all the objections he had urged in his message applied in full force to it, and, instead of encouraging the South to loyalty, would tend to drive them to desperation, and make their hatred of the Government inveterate. The same principle of stimulating loyalty was shown in the manner in which he had held martial law over them.—Whenever they should show so peaceful and law abiding a condition of their community, that martial law was not needed it should be removed.

Their own conduct would thus determine the matter, and the desire and interest of all the best people be increased to put down disturbances and outbreaks, to protect Union men and obey the laws, because, by doing so, they would hasten the withdrawal of the direct interference of the military arm in their affairs.—In precisely the same way and under the influence of the same ideas, he had acted in regard to civil affairs generally in that section, regarding it as necessary and proper to impose conditions upon the rebellious States which would guarantee the safety of the country, and regarding the existing affairs of the local governments as having disqualified themselves by their treason for continuance in power, he deposed them and established Provisional governments; then he asked himself what conditions ought to be demanded of them, and how their disposition to accept them in good faith might be stimulated. The conditions, namely: The amendment of the State Constitutions excluding slavery; the acceptance of the same amendment of the Constitution of the United States; the repudiation of the rebel debt, and the admission of the freedmen to various rights, etc., everybody is familiar with. To stimulate them to accept these conditions, being such as using his best judgment, and in the absence of any Congressional plan, he thought the nearest right of any he could frame. He engaged that on their acceptance with evidence of good faith he would permit them to reorganize their State governments, elect legislatures, etc., and as far as executive acts could do so, would restore them to their position in the union of States. They had so far accepted his condition that he did not regard the experiment a failure but a success. He had accordingly reorganized the Post Office Department everywhere among them, had reopened trade and removed restrictions thereon through the Treasury Department, and in like manner in all the executive departments recognized them as States in the Union, only keeping enough of a military hold to protect the freedmen, as he had before stated, and to induce them to do something more thorough in that direction.

Now but one thing remained in which those States did not exercise the full rights of States, and that was representation in Congress. In this, he had advised that the same principle of stimulating loyalty, be applied as in the other respects which he had named. He would admit only such representatives as are in fact loyal men, giving satisfactory evidence of this.—Whenever a State or district sent a loyal man properly elected and qualified, he would think it right to admit him the same as if from any other State; and he would admit none but such loyal men; so that other States or districts might be thus induced to elect and send similar men. When they had all done this, then representation would be full, and the work would be done.

Such was his plan. He did not ask to be the judge of the elections and qualifications of members of Congress or of their loyalty. Congress was its own judge, and he had no dream of interfering with its constitutional right; but he felt like urging upon them, and upon the country, that this mode of finishing the work, so nearly completed in other respects, was the only favorable one which had been presented, and that it was impossible to ignore the fact that the States were exercising their rights and enjoying their privileges within the Union; were, in short, restored in all other respects, and that it is too late to question the fundamental right of representation.

I then remarked to him that I heard it suggested that legislation could properly be made by Congress, purely civil in its character, providing for the protection of the freedmen by United States Courts of inferior jurisdiction in all cases where the States did not do so themselves.

He replied that such an idea would run exactly parallel to his plan, but he had not thought it yet time to fix his own ideas of the precise mode of accomplishing this end, because we had a margin of time lasting till after the next session of Congress, during which the present Freedmen's Bureau could continue in operation, and if before that time the Southern States should recognize the necessity of passing proper laws themselves, and providing a proper system of protection for the freedmen, nothing further on our part would be necessary. If they did not do what they ought, there would then be time enough to elaborate a plan. He then referred briefly to the fact that men who have been rejoicing over his veto message, saying that if these men in good faith adopted the views of his policy, he had himself held and acted upon, and which he had so fully elaborated in his annual message and explained to me, the country surely could have no cause for sorrow in that. If disloyal men and rebels everywhere, North and South, should cordially give their adherence to the conditions of restoration he had uniformly insisted upon, he thought that was the kind of pacification loyal men everywhere would rejoice in. The more they were committed to such a course the better he would like it, for if they were not sincere, they would at least diminish their power of dangerous opposition in future. His whole heart was with the body of true men who had carried the country through the war, and he earnestly desired to maintain a cordial and perfect understanding with them. This sentiment and purpose he regarded as entirely consistent with determined opposition to the obstruction policy of those extremists who, as he believed, would keep the country in chaos till absolute ruin might come upon us.

Such, my dear Sir, is the conversational statement of the President on this important matter; and if you could meet his straightforward, honest look, and hear the hearty tones of his voice, as I did, I am well assured that you would believe, with me, that, although he may not receive personal assaults with the equanimity and forbearance Mr. Lincoln used to show, there is no need to fear that Andrew Johnson is not hearty and sincere in his adhesion to the principles upon which he was elected.

Very truly, yours,

J. D. COX.

We most cheerfully endorse it as an article worthy of the confidence of the public, and the purchaser may rely upon securing an article honestly and carefully manufactured.

ON THE FIRST OF JANUARY WE WILL commence the publication, in the City of Baltimore, of a monthly

Mr. Bynum's Resolutions.

The resolutions of Mr. Bynum, the Senator from Lincoln, introduced by him on Wednesday last, are highly important, and involve principles which are intimately connected with the honor and credit of the State. The uniform clearness and correctness of the Senator, makes us hesitate to differ with him, yet while we accord with him in his asseverations as to the purpose of North Carolina to pay her debt, we must differ entirely with him, in the objection which he urges to the proposition to fund the interest now due by her.

We do not for a moment question the integrity of those gentlemen who are opposed to the funding of those coupons due and falling due. We have no doubt that so far as they are concerned, they will advocate no measure in future which looks to repudiation. The Senator from Lincoln is honest in the positions he takes, believing it to be at present the wiser policy. But we ask gentlemen, what are the bare resolutions of a legislative body worth, whose members are liable to be ousted at every election, and whose complexion in another year may be totally different from the present one?

The great question to be solved is, shall the credit of the State be sustained? The inability of the State to pay at present is admitted. Our people are not in a condition to be taxed to pay the State's interest. Yet her creditors assure the State, that they desire to see some tangible evidence, that she will make arrangements to pay in future. They simply ask that the coupons due and falling due, which the State stands pledged to pay at maturity, shall be funded, as the State is now unable to cash them. Could they demand less? Does not every one feel that they make an equitable demand?

The resolutions not only oppose the funding of the coupons, but they also affirm that the State will pay when she is able, and cannot submit to the compounding of her interest. We know that there is a principle in law, which requires that the State must protect herself even to the damage of the people. But is it not clear that the damage to the State will be greater by refusing to provide for her interest due, than she can be by making this provision? At this juncture, we consider the credit of the State is every thing to her. It is almost tantamount to her very existence. Resolutions of fidelity to her pledged faith—of her purpose to maintain her integrity, may be piled as high as the dome of her Capitol, yet in the estimation of financiers they amount to nothing, so long as she makes no tangible arrangement binding the faith of the State.

Let gentlemen look to the effect which is being produced upon the credit of the State, by the delay to fund her debt. The bonds of the State are being forced into the market, by the ruinous doubt which has already been excited as to the future. The bonds of the State with coupons attached, bearing upon their face an indebtedness of $1000 principal and $300 interest, sold in New York the other day at only $75 per $100 of the face of the bond; i. e. $750 for $1300. At that rate, those bonds with the coupons off, the $1000 bonds, only bring $450.

The New York Herald gives the following exhibit of sales on the 26th, Feb. At the first session of the Stock Exchange, $25,000 N. C. old sixes sold for $75,75, $12,000 at $75,50, $20,000 bought at 30 days, $75,75, $14,000 at second call brought only $75. At the third session, $80,000 sold at $75.

But the Senator objects to the compounding process. Every one will admit that would be our misfortune—that the debt would thereby be increased more rapidly, but can any one say the demand is not equitable? We put it to the Senator to say, if these State bonds were individual bonds with coupons attached, would not the individual debtors be obliged to pay interest upon the coupons? No individual who could help it would allow his coupons thus to run, but could his misfortune be plead in bar of the recovery of the interest on the coupons? Certainly not. Again, what if the creditors of the State were to protest the coupons in New York, would they not be able in law to seize upon any effects belonging to the State which they might find in New York, and make good the interest as well as the principal of the coupons? We do not state this as a proposition, certain, but it would be well for Senators to consider it.

We beg Senators and all concerned, to look carefully to this question. Nothing is so delicate as credit, except virtue, which is one and the same thing. We regret that the Standard in its leader of yesterday, admits that the State debt is in danger. The Standard says:

"We tell Mr. Ferebee that if he should thus cause the people to believe that the rebel debt is equally binding with the old debt, the latter will certainly go by the board. It is in danger now. Let gentlemen beware how they trifle with the plighted faith of the State."

Now, we will not admit that the State debt is in danger. We do not believe, that North Carolina will of her own choice, repudiate any honest debt she has contracted. She would never have repudiated her war debt, but for the imperious necessity imposed upon her. Not because she loves treason, as the Standard intimates, but because she is honest and true.

Again, there is another fact which men inclined to favor repudiation, or which weak-kneed honest men, have not considered. President Johnson required the repudiation, (for we can call it nothing else, even though the poor logic of the Standard denies it,) of the State war debt, upon the ground that it was contracted in violation of the Constitution of the United States. If President Johnson was careful therefore, in order to vindicate the Constitution, that North Carolina should repudiate her war debt, will he not be equally jealous of the Constitution in holding the State up to her obligations, to pay that portion of her debt which is in accordance with the Constitution?

If there be a man in the State inclined to repudiation, and we trust there are but few, we warn them not to forget that we have one Andrew Johnson still at the helm, who has sworn to support the Constitution. Can North Carolina repudiate even if her people desired it?—Can she pass any law looking to repudiation which will not palpably violate the Constitution? We think not. Let then all ideas, all suggestions, all hints in that direction be hushed, and let the Legislature march up manfully to the task, to save the honor and credit of the State in this crisis.

Mr. McKoy, who was an original war man, and who "fought it out" at long taw, and Mr. Pell, who was a latter-day war man, seem to be as thoroughly united as the double-headed African girls. They are such good Union men all at once, that they turn up their noses at the "straitest sect" as "so-called Union men."—Standard.

Mr. Pell became a war man after Mr. Holden did, and after Mr. Holden signed the secession ordinance. Mr. Pell would have signed Mr. Badger's ordinance, which Mr. Holden preferred, but whether he could have been induced to sign the secession ordinance we are not quite sure. Mr. Pell, however, never shirked the responsibility of defending the course of the State as a matter of dire necessity; and after she had taken her position and sworn to it, Mr. Pell did not cowardly desert her, as soon as the game seemed to be against her. No, no! He was loth to go in—felt that it was ruin to go in, yet having taken his position with his own kindred and people, he never deserted them, and he never will!

Mr. McKoy and Mr. Pell differed very materially in the start, but Mr. McK. was consistent, and having sustained his State and the cause of his kindred and people to the last, he surrendered when there was no hope, and again plighted his faith to the old Union. We differed, but we glory in his integrity.

Genuine, true Union men, Mr. Pell never assails, nor calls in question their integrity; but when so-called Union men, put on airs and pretend to be so much better than other people, why he is apt to let them slide.

The President's Position.

We publish the letter of Gov. Cox, of Ohio, on our first page to-day, which he says embodies a correct account of his conversation with the President, defining his position. It is important that the people and our legislators should understand the President. It is declared to be his purpose to continue the Freedman's Bureau, until the Southern States pass such laws as are necessary to the security of the freedom of the blacks and all civil rights to that end. The President also will demand of Congress to receive only such representatives as may be deemed loyal. If Congress is to judge of their loyalty, of course there are only about six elected in the whole South, who have any chance. At least it is said, that that is General Grant's opinion.

Chatham Rail Road.

The annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Chatham Rail Road Company was held, pursuant to notice, at the office of the Raleigh & Gaston Rail Road, in Raleigh, on Thursday, the 1st of March.

Maj. H. W. Husted was called to the chair, and Maj. W. W. Vass appointed Secretary. A committee consisting of Thos. J. Webb and Geo. W. Mordecai was appointed to verify proxies, and ascertain the amount of stock represented; who subsequently reported that a quorum of the stock was not represented.—Whereupon, on motion of Geo. W. Mordecai, Esq., the meeting adjourned to the third Thursday in July next.

THE ORPHANS.—The Wilson Carolinian in urging the necessity of the keeping up the Common Schools of the State, makes the following appropriate reference to the orphans of our deceased soldiers, as an argument against their abandonment:

Their orphans are wards of the State. Humanity, justice, gratitude and an enlightened public policy dictate our duty. Let them be educated at the public expense. Fit them for filling with honor and dignity positions of respectability in society—quality them for usefulness, and we shall thus, in part, repay the debt we owe their fathers.

(Correspondence of Baltimore Sun.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.

SUPPORT FOR THE PRESIDENT—THE RADICALS DEMORALIZED.

Governor Cox, of Ohio, in his visit to the President to-day, indicated clearly that he sustained his policy; so, also, does General Curtis, of Iowa. Radicalism is considerably demoralized. Sherman's speech is significant of better things. Things have arrived at such a pitch that Mr. Stanton cannot remain but a very short time in the Cabinet.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS AND THE PRESIDENT.

In addition to the audiences given by the President to-day to Governors Cox of Ohio, Sharkey of Mississippi, Parsons of Alabama, and Generals Steadman, McCook and Saxon, a number of Democratic friends, members of Congress from New York visited the Executive, who expressed themselves approvingly of the policy of restoration, and their desire to co-operate in carrying out the President's plans.—Among these gentlemen were Hons. Israel T. Hatch, of Buffalo, A. P. Grunt, of Oswego, John B. Steel, of Ulster, Elijah Wood and Geo. Taylor of New York, and Messrs. L. B. Crocker and F. T. Carrington of Oswego.

Gen. Grant was accidently shot in the hand in New York on the 25th ult., while handling a new rifle. Slightly hurt.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

SENATE.

(EVENING SESSION.)

February 28.

The Senate was called to order at half past seven o'clock, P. M.

Mr. Cowles stated that there was to be a lecture on a very interesting subject to be delivered in the Commons Hall to night, and moved the Senate adjourn until to-morrow at 10 o'clock. Lost.

Mr. Jones of Columbus, moved a call of the Senate, which was agreed to; a quorum however, came in while the Clerk was calling the roll, and the call was suspended.

The bill to abolish the Superintendent of Common Schools and for other purposes, being under consideration, the question arising on the adoption of the amendment offered by Mr. Cowles' it was rejected. On the amendment to the amendment by Mr. Wilson, a vote was taken and it was lost. The bill passed its second reading.

The bill which was defeated to-day, providing for the erection of a penitentiary, on motion of Mr. Carter, was reconsidered and laid on the table.

Bill to punish trespass upon lands, passed under a suspension of the rules.

Bill to punish persons pursuing and injuring horses and other live stock with intent to steal them, passed its third reading under a suspension of the rules.

Bill to punish vagrancy, passed its third reading under a suspension of the rules.

On motion of Mr. Jones of Columbus, the special order was postponed until to-morrow at 12 o'clock.

Bill to punish persons enticing servants from fulfilling their contracts, or of harboring them, passed its third reading under a suspension of the rules.

Bill to secure to agricultural laborers their pay in kind, passed its third reading under a suspension of the rules.

Bill more effectually to secure the maintenance of bastard children, passed its third reading under a suspension of the rules.

Bill to establish a work house or houses of correction in each county of the State, passed its third reading under a suspension of the rules.

A message was received from the House transmitting the following bills viz:

Bill to amend the charter of the town of Gaston. Referred to Committee on Corporations.

Bill concerning negroes, and persons of color being under consideration, Mr. Carter moved the rules be suspended to put the bill on its second reading, whereupon Mr. Cowper called the ayes and nays. Ayes 16, nays 21. Not agreed to.

Mr. Covington moved that the bill be made the special order for Monday at 12 o'clock.

Mr. Carter moved to amend by inserting Friday 11 o'clock and called for the ayes and nays. The vote stood: Ayes 27, nays 10, and Mr. Carters amendment was adopted.

The bill concerning assignments on motion of Mr. Gash, was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. Harris, of Rutherford, introduced a resolution providing that after 1st. day of March no member will be excused from his seat until the close of the session. Lies over.

On motion of Mr. Carter the Senate adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

SENATE.

THURSDAY, March 1st.

The Senate was called to order at 10 o'clock, A. M.

Prayer by the Rev. Dr. Mason.

Mr. McKoy arose to a question of privilege. He said an attack had been made upon him in the columns of the Standard, which represented him before the world in an untruthful and unenviable light. The charges, there brought, were unfounded, and facts did not justify the conclusions of the Standard's editor. Mr. McKoy is represented by the Standard as backing down or qualifying his remarks, when attacked by Mr. Carter, the Senator from Beaufort. This he denied and called on Mr. Carter and the Senate to bear him out in this statement. He repeated his position, viz: That the interests of the State required all to act harmoniously in the great work of reconstruction. That if there ever was a time when all men (no matter what their antecedents may have been,) should stand shoulder to shoulder and present one unbroken front that this was the time.—He urged that all alike, whether soldier in the field during the late war or citizen at home, should now be moved a by common impulse and strike for the interest of North Carolina. And among honest men who had taken the oath of allegiance, there could be no difference and ought to be none. The misrepresentation of his course during the war was not justified by truth. That he volunteered as a private in the first company that left his county, that he received an appointment under the Confederate Government, and afterwards a home guard appointment, that whenever in the discharge of his duties as home guard officer, he acted under the sanction of civil law, and caused men to be arrested on warrants from justices of the peace. That when Wilmington was attacked, he went immediately down to join some company as a private. After reporting in Wilmington, and while the fight at Fort Fisher was going on, he was informed that he had been elected Colonel of the reserves.

He went down, joined his regiment, and remained in service until the war closed. Mr. McKoy said it was unpleasant for him to parade himself before the Senate, yet he could not rest under the misrepresentations of the Standard's report.

He disavowed any spirit of party in this whole transaction. And as to his going out of the way to make an attack on the editor of the Standard, he only spoke of facts as they existed, with reference to no one, save such as history from the record implicated, not even mentioning the name of the Standard's editor. He said that there was unusual sensitiveness somewhere, or this personal attack would not have been made. He is not a candidate for any office; is in the Senate without soliciting the position, and only desiring to do what is for the best interests of the State.

He can not well be charged with wanting to share the offices with the "straitest sect." Returning his thanks for the indulgence of the Senate he said he would dismiss the subject.

Mr. Howard presented a memorial from certain citizens of Edgecombe county, asking an amendment to the law in reference to fences, which was referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. Cowles from the Committee on Claims, reported back the resolution in favor of S. R. Bunting, with an amendment recommending its passage; on his motion the rules were suspended and it passed its third reading.

Mr. McLean introduced a resolution to facilitate the passage of lumber on the Cape Fear river, above Fayetteville, which was referred to Committee on Internal Improvements.

The resolution introduced by Mr. Harris of Rutherford, in reference to the attendance of Senators for the balance of the session, was considered and rejected.

Mr. Pitchford introduced a resolution to prevent any Senator, from and after to-day, to speak for a greater length of time than fifteen minutes on any question in debate. Laid over, under the rules.

A message from the House transmitting the following engrossed resolution, viz: A resolution in favor of C. Kuester & Bro., referred to committee on claims. Resolution in favor of R. W. Best; same reference made.

The bill to compensate judges under an ordinance of the Convention came up on its second reading, and on motion of Mr. Howard, was referred to the Committee on Salaries and Fees.

SPECIAL ORDER.

The bill to change the jurisdiction of the courts, and the rules of pleading therein, was taken up and considered by sections. Various amendments were offered, several of which were adopted, occupying much time, but as the bill is on its second reading, we omit a particular notice, intending to publish it when completed.

Pending its consideration, the hour of adjournment having arrived, the Speaker pronounced the Senate adjourned till 7½ o'clock, P. M.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

THURSDAY, March 1.

The House was called to order at ten o'clock, A. M.

The Journal of yesterday was read and approved.

Sundry reports were made from Standing Committees, which will be noticed in detail hereafter.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

By Mr. McDonald: "a bill to amend the charter of the Governor's Creek Steam Boat Transportation and Mining Company." Passed its several readings under a suspension of the rules.

By Mr. Mott: a bill to amend the charter of the town of Newton, Catawba county.

ON CALENDAR.

A bill to amend the charter of the Trustees of Greensboro Female College. Passed 2nd and 3rd readings. The resolution, introduced on yesterday, by Mr. York, that the House hereafter hold evening sessions, meeting at seven o'clock, P. M., was taken up. Mr. Jenkins of Warren, moved to amend the resolutions as follows: adjourn at 2 o'clock, p. m., and meet again at 4 o'clock, p. m.

Mr. Faircloth of Wayne, moved to amend the amendment as follows: meet at half-past nine o'clock, a. m., and adjourn at 3 o'clock, p. m.

On motion of Mr. Ferrell, the resolution and amendments were laid on the table.

A bill to establish Freehold Homesteads for the citizens of the State, was put on its 2nd reading. (This bill allows the allotment of a freehold homestead of fifty acres of land in the country, or two acres in town, to be exempt from execution for any debts contracted or cause of action, or other liability, save taxes accruing after the same is registered: Provided, said homestead shall not be exempt from execution for any debt or cause of action arising upon any penal bond or covenant previously executed. The bill further provides that a husband shall not have power to dispose of the homestead without the concurrence of the wife, evidenced by deed, executed and verified with the same formalities that may be required by law to convey the lands of "femes covert."

On motion of Mr. Waugh, the bill was amended by striking out the word "fifty" before "acres" and insert "one hundred."

The bill as amended passed its second reading. The rules were suspended and the bill had its third reading.

Mr. Jenkins of Gaston, moved to amend by enlarging the homestead—striking out "one hundred" and inserting "two hundred" before the word "acres."

Mr. Cameron said;

MR. SPEAKER: It was not my purpose to participate in this debate, but I will submit a few remarks in response to the gentleman from Gaston. I always was in favor of a homestead bill; and I entirely concurred with the Judiciary Committee in its recommendation to set apart to each head of a family fifty acres of land for a home. I thought that quantity sufficient. I did not, however, object to the amendment, introduced by the gentleman from Surry, increasing the number of acres to one hundred. I do object to the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Gaston.

The object of a homestead law is, as I conceive, two-fold. The first purpose contemplated is, to provide for a man and his family a HOME—where the harpies of the law may not enter—where they may sit down under their own vine and fig-tree, and no one to molest or make them afraid. Place a man in this situation and you enhance his pride, and attach him to the soil. He will exert himself to enrich and beautify his farm, and to make his home lovely and pleasant. Man was driven from the garden—his appropriate place—and until he gets back there, he will never be happy.

But a second purpose contemplated by the bill before the House, is to improve the condition of the country—not to create land monopolists. The holding of too much land has been a great evil in North Carolina. Where large proprietors reside, neither churches nor schoolhouses are found; improvements lag, and selfishness prevails. But let the lands be cut up into small farms; let the proprietors be encouraged, by a measure of this kind, to improve them, and the whole face of the country will be renovated. Population will increase; enterprise will be stimulated; churches will be built; schools will be established, and internal improvements will be projected and carried through. The desert will be made to smile, and the solitary places to rejoice and blossom as the rose. I hope the amendment of the gentleman from Gaston will not prevail.

This amendment was rejected, and the bill passed its third reading.

Senate resolutions in favor of Cherokee Indians, passed their several readings after discussion mainly relative to an appropriation of $100 from the Treasury to defray the expenses of the Indian Chief, Bushyhead, to Washington City.

Mr Hoke opposed the resolution and urged a reference.

Mr. Holderby did not feel at liberty to vote for the resolution, but was willing to be one of an hundred to give a dollar each for the purpose indicated.

Mr. Blythe concurred with Mr. Holderby.

Messrs. Jenkins of Warren, Waugh and Marler supported the resolution.

An engrossed resolution in favor of certain disabled soldiers, had its first reading.

The House then took up the revenue bill on its third reading.

Sundry amendments were offered and rejected. Among these was one offered by Mr. Hutchison to impose a tax of $1 upon dogs—exempting, however, one dog from taxation for each head of a family.

Mr. Hutchison asked the yeas and nays upon this amendment, and called upon all who were desirous of encouraging and protecting sheep-raising in the State, to vote for the amendment. Mr. Cameron urged the adoption of the amendment. Messrs. Marler and Nicks opposed it. The amendment was rejected.

The bill passed its third reading and the House adjourned.

DIED:

On the 27th of February, 1866, after a painful illness of eleven days Mrs. Pherabe P Young, wife of J. J. Young, of Wake County, N. C., aged 22 years, 3 months and 24 days. She leaves a distressed husband and relatives to mourn her loss. Patient under all her sufferings, she resigned herself to the will of the Almighty, and passed from life with no regret, except to be separated from her husband, to whom she was most tenderly devoted. She was beloved by all who knew her, possessing a most amiable disposition, simplicity in manners, candor and truth. While we mourn for her departed spirit, let us bow ourselves to the will of our Maker, and hope that our loss may be her Eternal gain.

A CARD.

THE Philanthropic Society of the University of North Carolina is anxious to have a record of the names, and, as far as possible, of the histories also, of its members who were slain in the recent war. They may be counted by hundreds, and their blood has stained the field of every battle from Manassas to Bentonsville. Of these brave and noble men, who freely offered their young lives for the cause of their country, there should be some enduring memorial. We owe it to them, and we owe it no less to ourselves, and to those who shall come after us. Their eminent patriotism should not be forgotten, nor should the worthiness of their example be lost to their successors.
The Society has thought that its archives are a most fit place of deposit for such memorials, where they are sure to meet with reverent care, and are most likely to be long preserved, and to be of the highest service to our young men hereafter.
It has, therefore, directed this appeal to be made to the kindred and friends of those, its members, who perished in the late war, and to all who may be able to render such service, that they would send to the Society such memoranda as may be had of their lives and of their death. It desires to form a complete catalogue of those whom it has lost, with biographical sketches, at full as may be, of them all; or, in default of such sketches, accounts of separate acts of virtue and daring.
Besides such memoranda, it will gladly receive any personal memorials of its deceased members, their autographs, accoutrements they wore, &c., &c. All will be duly arranged here, and carefully preserved in honor of the dead and to the use of the living for many generations; and it is believed that no where else will the memory of our departed brethren be cherished longer, or with more peculiar veneration. And now, that the late war is over, now that the last four years of bloodshed, destitution and distress have passed, now that we have resumed our former connection with the Federal government in true faith and with honest intentions, the incidents and acts connected with the war's history, are fast being effaced from the hearts and memory of the people for whom they were performed. The Society, believing that in a country whose every law breathes independence and equality, acts of worth should be perpetuated, views this fact with the deepest concern: it has, therefore, appointed its Library to be a receptacle for trophies commematory of the war, and requests contributions from her friends throughout the State. It should be a source of congratulation to the authors that their illustrious actions are not forgotten, and of pride to the country, that she is worthy of them; and equally the duty of both that they be fitly honored.
All communications made, and articles sent, should be directed to "Philanthropic Society, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill," with the name of the donor, and an appropriate description accompanying each article. All expenses connected with the sending of such articles, will be defrayed by the Society.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

THE LECTURE.—Quite a large audience attended on Wednesday evening at the Commons Hall to hear the lecture of Maj. McKnight, on the subject of "Babies." The speaker elicited fine attention and his humor several times brought down the house. Many portions of it were interesting and amusing, but all seemed disappointed at its length. He closed before any one expected it, and the general feeling was that he closed too soon.

Trial of Maj. Gee.

This trial is still progressing. Col. Hoke and Col. Folk were before the Commission on Wednesday. Gov. Vance testified on yesterday, besides other witnesses. So far as we are able to judge, but little yet appears in the testimony to prejudice the case of the Major, while a number of facts go to sustain his reputation as a humane gentleman and deserving officer.

ARRANGEMENT.—The Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road Company has effected an arrangement by which it can now furnish through tickets to all the principal cities North, both by the way of Richmond and Petersburg and by the Bay Line via Norfolk.

Patrick Murphy, Esq., one of the Commoners from Sampson, has been detained from his seat for several days by indisposition. We are glad to learn he will soon be able to resume his seat.

Mrs. Metilda J. Selby, has been appointed Post Mistress at Wilson, and the Carolinian thinks it an excellent appointment.

The destitution of food in Alabama is distressing. The subject has been before the Legislature and the report of the committee shows an alarming state of things.

For the Sentinel.

CHAPEL HILL, Feb. 26, 1866.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—What an immense pile of letters has borne the same superscription since the foundation of our "Alma Mater!" Yet, whatever its enormity, I throw in this mite—though it be the widow's—to swell the bulk. Locally, the village retains somewhat of its pristine serenity and mournful monotony—sufficient at least to make it recognizable, though one is forcibly struck with the difference between the former dandies who lounged lazily around the store-doors on pleasant Saturday evenings, and ever and anon filling the air with merry peals of laughter, as some poor victim—generally a "Fresh"—was made the butt of a practical joke; and the sable drones who now idly throng the corners,

"Making night hideous, and day-light too,
With their everlasting smell."

True, there is a noticeable diminuition in the stock of goods, and a correspondingly perceptible increase in the number of counters, legitimate consequences attending poverty-stricken people, but which may be remedied by time and toil.

The campus is, comparatively speaking, a "howling wilderness"—the shrubbery has a neglected appearance, the rain has, in many places, washed away the walks, the leaves are suffered to rest undisturbed by "Paxton's" rake; despite everything it still remains the most prominent and beautiful feature of the "Hill of Science!" The buildings of the College have undergone no material alteration, except that they lack the density of tenants, and active signs of life which formerly populated and characterized them. There are seventy students present, and an occasional addition is made to the ranks.—I have no doubt that when the South recovers in same measure from the shock of the late civil war, that like the scorching siroceo swept over its fair face, blasting vegitation, paralizing every branch of industry, and leaving a blackened and chared surface, the University will receive an approximation to its ante-bellum patronage. The boys have selected an efficient corps of officers to officiate next commencement, who design using every exertion to make the guests, who may favor the institution with their presence, have an agreeable time. Mr. Rob't Means of Concord, is chief marshall, and the ball managers of the Phi Society are Messrs. L. Battle, W. Alston and W. Dortch; those of the Di, are Messrs. J. McRae, A. Phillips and C. McKesson; and I will say to the ladies who are fond of "tripping the light fantastic toe," that the Salisbury band will be in attendance, "discoursing sweet music," to those whose ears are attuned to dulcet melody, and that Terpsichore will "reign triumphant!"

Judge Battle's law school is flourishing like a "greenbay tree;" he has eight students and an early prospect of several more. So it seems that whatever there's a dearth of, we'll at least have a sufficient quantity of lawyers—provided they all become licentiates. If all these new (en embryo,) "limbs of the law" become attached to the main trunk, I opine the branches will considerably overspread the clients, even including children of the bureau." Nous verrons!

I didn't intend to touch on politics in this "note of odds and ends;" but it appears that some of our edtors should be so improvident in their ebullitions of temper,—which benefits our condition not a whit—as to provoke Gen. Grant's order, relative to newspapers.—They should learn to discriminate more nicely between "freedom" and "licentiousness," and remember that Platonic maxim, "Law is the God of wise men, licentiousness is the God of fools.

"Strange, passing strange;
Pitiful, wond'rous pitiful,"

In aiding President Johnson to relieve us of some of our intolerable burdens, we can not be too careful in speech, nor cautious in action—anything to the contrary, only serves to foment sectional animosity, and furnishes a fulcrum on which a "fanatical" lover may work to prize us further out of the Union.

"ELTTAB."

The reported death of the Rev. Alexander Campbell is untrue. He is now residing at Bethany, Va.

A good-natured fellow, who was nearly eaten out of house and home by the constant visits of his friends, was one day complaining bitterly of his numerous visitors. "Shure, an' I tell ye how to get rid of 'em," said an Irishman.—"Pray how?" "Lind money to the poor ones, and borrow from the rich ones, and nather sort will ever trouble ye again."

Little three year old Jennie was playing very roughly with the kitten, carrying it by the tail. Her mother told her that she would hurt pussy. "Why, no, I won't," said she, "I'm carrying it by the handle!"

Matters at Washington.

WASHINGTON, February 25.

The Radicals are already beaten and they know it. All their floundering efforts to recover from the blow they have received are only the evidences of their acknowledged imbecility. The more we hear and see of their movements and intents, the more satisfied we are that the time has come when every man in the North will contribute his aid to the restoration of the Union in its pristine glory, power and prosperity. I do not believe that any man in the South hangs back from the same inevitable conviction. It becomes all men to endeavour to compose this strife, which they can do it they will accept the leadership of the man of Providence—Andrew Johnson. Lincoln, in his heart, was even more conciliatory than his successor, but he had become embarrassed by various commitments, and besides, lacked, perhaps, the one quality of endurance which bears up Johnson. Lincoln was subject to persuasion, as the most honest men might be. But Johnson is proof against the influences of the syren. He listens to another voice—that of the people, and you can see that he has an instinctive perception of the popular spirit. He knows, too, that he can influence the popular mind, as any President can, if the people are convinced that his intentions are honest. The trust of Johnson in the people is not mistaken. At any rate, let us look at Congress to-day, and see how Johnson is coming out.

The Radical Senators are more abusive of Johnson than ever. They swear and declare that he shall not have a chance to fill the people's offices with his friends. As I have before mentioned, they say that this Thirty-ninth Congress will not adjourn at all, that it will remain in session till March 3d, 1867; and that then, when the President, as usual, calls the Senate in extra session for a few days, they will remain in session, for the President cannot dismiss them against their consent. The President might, if he chose, decline the customary call for a temporary session of the Senate. Then there would be a nine months' recess, during which time the Executive could fill every office, abroad and at home, without the advice and consent of the Senate.

THE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS—ITS ACTION AND SPIRIT.

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger telegraphs:

The action of the caucus on Friday evening, in declining to take issue with the Executive on an appeal to the people, meets with general favor here, as will any and all efforts looking to the avoidance of a more extended rupture. In the caucus, however, there was nevertheless a determination expressed to stand shoulder to shoulder in support of the measures that may be introduced in Congress, and if the President sees fit to refuse his signature thereto, so be it. The members will feel that they have discharged their duty as they understood it, and they will leave the future to verify or refute their position.

GRANT'S POSITION.

General Grant's absence from the meeting in New York was said to have been because he did not coincide with the measures that he knew would be advocated there for the settlement of the questions at present disturbing the country.

SEWARD'S SPEECH.

Secretary Seward's speech at the Cooper Institute, instead of being a non-committal one, is looked upon as a very strong and positive one. His labelling the Reconstruction Committee the "Obstruction" Committee is a capital hit. It is, however, probable that both Fessenden and Stevens will assail him on that point.

Corporation Proceedings.

Regular meeting of the Board of Commissioners, held this evening.

Present—Col. Wm. H. Harrison, Mayor.

Messrs. C. B. Root, Dr. W. H. McKee, N. S. Harp, P. Overby, A. Sorrell, D. L. Royster, R. W. Haywood, H. Mahler and C. M. Farriss, Commissioners.

Sundry accounts of city night watch, amounting to $470 were allowed.

The following accounts were presented and allowed:

" Hart & Lewis,	8 75
" Whitelaw & King,	4 50
J. W. Johnson, city watch,	5 00
E. F. Page,	12 00

C. Kuester & Bro. presented an account of $50,50. Laid on the table.

A communication was received and read from Lenn H. Adams, praying the Board to grant him the privilege of remaining in the Engine House, as a store house (having secured a place for the engine,) which was, on motion, granted.

Mr. A. Miller, P. M., petitioned the Board to be allowed to move a building on the lot belonging to the United States, on Fayetteville St., for a post office. Granted.

Mr. Root, Chairman of the Committee, introduced the following Ordinance, which was adopted:

Ordinance to provide for cleansing the City, and preventing cholera or other contagious or infectious diseases:

Be it ordained by the Commissioners of the City of Raleigh, That it shall be the duty of the city constable, under the direction of the Mayor, to investigate the condition of the privies, back yards and other places in the city, where filth may exist, and notify the owner or tenant of the ground, where the same may be, to cleanse the same, and remove said filth, and if, within five days after such notification, such cleansing and removal shall not be made, the persons in default, shall be fined two dollars, and five dollars additional for each day thereafter, during which such nuisance may continue.

C. B. ROOT.
N. S. HARP.
C. M. FARRISS.

Mr. S. B. Sugg petitioned the Board to grant him the privilege of using his bake oven, erected in the rear of his store house, on Wilmington St. which was, on motion of Mr. Royster, granted.

Dr. McKee moved for a reconsideration of the above. Board refused to reconsider.

On motion of Mr. Farriss, ordered that the street lamps be put out at 12 o'clock.

Mr. M. C. Luter tendered his resignation as Assistant Constable, which, on motion of Mr. Farriss, was accepted.

On motion of Mr. Farriss, ordered that the order issued to Mr. W. C. Parker, for $200, for the arrest of the person who committed the murder of W. F. Fort, was rescinded.

Ordered, that the Medical Faculty of the city shall be appointed a Board of Health, and they are hereby so constituted, and they are respectfully requested, each for himself, to communicate to the Mayor, in writing, on the 1st day of each month, the number of deaths occurring in his practice in the limits of the city, within the month preceding, and the disease of which the patients died.

On motion, the Board adjourned.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Rev. C. W. Vining, who has safely returned from a journey in the East, thoughtfully brings us, among other curiosities, some of the newspapers published in Egypt and Turkey. They are in four languages—French, Turkish, Armenian and Greek. We cannot read them, but he can, and through his patience we have been gratified to learn their contents, and the materials of which newspapers are made up in the land of the Osmanlis. Our American enterprise is well represented: stoves, wooden and tin-ware, ploughs, axes and tools are advertised from this country. In each of the four languages are heralded the virtues of the remedies made by our celebrated countrymen, Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., of Lowell. They seem not to depend on their home reputation for confidence abroad, but publish the certificates of the Musselmen rulers themselves, to the cures which those medicines have made in their midst. The Rev. gentleman informs us that the whole of the remedial aid employed in those countries comes from Europe or America, as they possess no medical colleges or schools in which they have any confidence themselves. There arose the religious ideas which pervade the human family, but almost all that is useful in art or invention must be carried back to these, the earlier settlements of mankind.—[Lynn News.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

Are the most perfect purgative which we are able to produce, or which we think has ever yet been made by any body. Their effects have abundantly shown to the community how much they excel the ordinary medicines in use. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart a healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take, and, being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief, were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character, as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliableness of our remedies, while others have sent us the assurance of their conviction that our Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of our afflicted, suffering fellow men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratuitous American Almanac, containing directions for the use, and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from foul stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid function of the bowels and pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Diseases which require an evacuant medicine. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability. Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with other preparations which they make more profit on. Demand AYER'S and take no other. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., and sold by

LIFE INSURANCE NOTICE.

THE old and well established

Ætna Company, of Hartford,

Offers unusual inducements to all who wish to provide for family or friends.

All losses are promptly paid. No case of litigation has ever occurred with this Company. With assets of $ 300,000, it offers to receive one half of the premium in a note and half in cash, and, after the second year, to credit each customer with the dividends of the Company, which are now 50 per cent. With a small outlay, $300, or $10,000, or $20,000, may be secured to the family after their earthly providers are taken away. What father or husband would not feel the deal on his dying couch, that he had availed himself of every proper means to place those nearest and dearest to him, above the pinchings of want, and a life of dependence upon friends or charity? 8,819 policies have been issued from the office ending Jan. 15, 1866. The total income for the year 1865 was $1,681,339 57, total disbursements $527,815 24, leaving a balance to surplus fund of $1,155,244 33.

In Raleigh, a large number have liberally responded and promptly acted in this matter, yet many delay, and may wait until it is too late. A man in this city lately left his place of business for his evening meal, well and healthy, but never reached that home except as he was carried there to die. Had that man taken the advice of the Agent, he might have left $5000 to minister to the necessities of a sorrowing family. Delays are dangerous, procrastination destructive. But one says, "If I only had confidence in the Company that it would pay, I would insure." Well, it never has failed to pay, and to-day is more responsible than ever before. It is patronized by some of the most sagacious minds in the land—men competent to detect and expose any deception if it existed.

BAUGH'S RAW BONE

Super-Phosphate of Lime.

BAUGH & SON'S,

MANUFACTURERS AND PROPRIETORS,

Store No. 20 South Delaware Avenue,

PHILADELPHIA.

THIS valuable Manure has been before the agricultural public, under one name for twelve years past, and its character for vigor of action and permanence in effect is well established. Before the war, it was introduced, to some extent, in the Southern States, and was found to be highly adapted to Cotton, Tobacco, and all Crops.

In its action, it is as quick as Peruvian Guano, while it does not leave the land in an exhausted state, but on the other hand permanently improves it. This has been fully proven by years of trial.

PROSPECTUS

OLD NORTH STATE.

"The Old North State Forever."

THE undersigned will commence the publication of a Daily and Weekly Newspaper, bearing the above title, in the city of Salisbury about the 10th of March next.

The Old North State will be, under our control, a firm and decided Union paper. But while it will be firm and decided in its support of the Union, and of all just and necessary measures tending to its complete restoration, it will yet be liberal and conservative. It will oppose radicalism from whatever quarter it may come. Confiding in the loyal intentions of the great body of the people of North Carolina, it will endeavor to soothe the asperities of the past by promoting among them a spirit of reconciliation and harmony.

Rejecting the exploded dogma of paramount State sovereignty, it will cheerfully support the National government in the exercise of every power necessary to the maintenance of its rightful authority, while it will ever contend against any encroachments upon the reserved rights of the States.

It will discuss all the various political issues of the day, but in doing this it will seek to avoid everything like partizan bitterness or personal vituperation. It will also strive to avoid that detestable practice, so common among politicians, of pandering to the passions and appealing to the prejudices of the multitude in order to accomplish partizan ends. It will endeavor to enlighten and direct aright public sentiment, by disseminating correct information, and by arguments addressed to the understanding—in short, it will endeavor to erect a high standard of political morality.

Its columns will be open for Political, Moral, Literary and Agricultural articles especially, and to the advertising public.

The Old North State will be printed on new type on the following

THE LOYALIST.

THE undersigned propose to publish in Louisburg, North Carolina, a newspaper under the above denomination, The LOYALIST, as its name imports, will yield a firm, uniform, and fearless support to the Constitution of the United States, and all laws enacted in pursuance of that great instrument. To the decisions of the Supreme Court of the nation, in such questions as originate in the interpretation or application of the principles involved in our federal jurisprudence or policy, the Loyalist will accord its unqualified acquiescence, as to the will of the American people, duly expressed through the only legitimate, determinate and sufficient medium, its general politics will be those so long and so thoroughly taught by the patriotism, the eloquence, and the wisdom of Clay, and his departed compeers, and so fearfully vindicated by the present melancholy and helpless condition of the communities so recently arrayed in arms against the integrity and harmony of our national union.

The Loyalist would make the institutions and independence, the material and moral dignity of the nation, as enduring and as brilliant as the stars whose images adorn the field and the folds of its flag. The Loyalist will also dedicate its energies and exert its abilities to ascertain and cherish the interests, as well as to develope the immense resources of North Carolina. To the cause of education, the general diffusion of knowledge, the elevation of the masses, and the religious culture of all within its influence it will be a consistent and inflexible friend. Its editorial department will be conducted by gentlemen whose names will be announced in due time.

The LOYALIST will be issued weekly, carefully printed, of the size of the Raleigh "Daily Sentinel," and furnished to patrons at $3,00 per annum, payable on delivery of the first number. Subscriptions and communications respectfully solicited.
